INTRODUCTION

The East kameng District lies approximately between the latitude 26'56 and 27'59 N and longitude 92'36 and 93'24 East. Its geographical area is approximately 4134 Sq.Km. The district is bounded by Kurung Kumey district in the north, West kameng district in the West and Papumpare district of Arunachal Pradesh in the East. It is also bounded by international boundary with China in the north and inter-state boundary with Assam in the south. The mighty river Kameng originated from the glacial lakes below Gorichan mountain flows through this district to the plain of Assam and there it meets mighty Brahmaputra river. Because of its varied topography different climatic condition occur within a short distance. The area experiences heavy rainfall for nearly 4 to 6 months in a year and winter months are extremely cold. Average annual rainfall is 2117.50 mm.

According to 2011 Census, the total population of district was 78685 at the average of 19 person per Sq.Km. Main occupation of the district is agriculture consisting of Jhum cultivation and Wet Rice Cultivation extending from slope mountainineous to low line area respectively. Out of total population inhabitants of the district are schedule tribes. The principal tribes are Nishis, Akas, Miji and purouks (Sollung). The nishis constitute the major tribes and scattered throughout the district. Akas are mostly concentrated in the southernmost part of Seppa circle. Mijis inhabit in Lada circle and puroiks are living at high hills of khenewa, Chayangtajo and Bameng circles.

East Kameng District has immense potential for development of cold water fisheries and warm water fish farming in hilly area and foot hills respectively. In addition, there is large scope for paddy-cum-fish culture in area like Pappu Valley and Passa Valley administrative circles. The fish production from both pond culture and riverine fisheries during the year 2015-2016 was estimated to 90 metric tonnes with the per capita consumption of 1.1 kg which is far below the requirement (11 kg per capita – Ministry of Agriculture, Govt. of India).
